ROSTRAVER MAN KILLED BY CYCLE

Teamster Tells of Beatings

WASHINGTON (UP)—A former professional boxer testified today that strong-arm squads beat up dissident members of a Teamsters Union local in Scranton, Pa.

The witness, Paul Bradshaw, also told the Senate Labor Rackets Committee that he and his friends "voted six or seven times" each in a 1954 union election.

Bradshaw, a stocky, powerfully-built 36-year-old truck driver, was the opening witness as the committee began hearings on what it called "a classic example of the use of force and violence . . . and terror tactics" by union leaders.

Bradshaw, who was convicted in connection with the dynamiting of a house, told senators that Robert Malloy, business agent of Teamsters Local 229 in Scranton, rigged elections. He said 80 per cent of the union members did not even know the elections were on the agenda.

He also testified that Malloy "gave instructions about beating me up now; he'd get Robert Hubshman" to do it.

"There was a fellow there—he'd get up on the floor at meetings," Bradshaw said. "He was going out the door and Hubshman clipped him a couple of times and said, 'Don't call me no damned Jew.' The fellow never opened his mouth."

Refuses Beating Request

Bradshaw said Robert Malloy once asked him and two other men to beat up one Red Harrington. "But I wouldn't have nothing to do with it."

Bradshaw said "I done all right in the amateurs" in 40 boxing bouts and then won 20 or 21 fights as a professional.

He said he was first elected a steward of Local 229, then Malloy told him to bring friends to a meeting with instructions how to vote. With only a few members present, the local then voted to extend the terms of Malloy and two other business agents from three to five years, and allow them to appoint the stewards.

Then in Local 229's election in 1954, Bradshaw said, Malloy gave him and his friends extra receipts for paid-up dues, allowing them to vote extra times.

"Several of us voted six or seven times," Bradshaw said. Malloy was elected business agent of the Local and J. C. (Pinky) Hart, president.

Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) said in an opening statement the hearings will show that "some union officials engaged in bullying tactics and made use of violence and terror tactics to impose their will not only on certain segments of the business

They have been charged with misappropriating Army vehicles and absence without leave "in addition to a possible murder charge," and Army spokesman said.

The body of salesman Erich Junkeckel, 47, was found near here Saturday. He had been beaten to death with a beer bottle or rock, German police said. His car was found Monday in the nearby Saale River.

Eisenhower Expected To Get Postal Bill From Senate Today

WASHINGTON (UP) — Republican congressional leaders told President Eisenhower today a 41 million dollar postal "money order" may be on his desk for signature tonight.

The "order" is a special appropriations bill to provide the Post Office Department with extra funds it says it needs to keep operating at full force until the start of the new fiscal year July 1.

The measure, aimed at restoring full postal service which was cut last Saturday, was being considered at an emergency session of the Senate Appropriations Committee today. It cleared the House Monday.

Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland (Calif.) and House GOP Leader Joseph W. Martin Jr. (Mass.) told Eisenhower at a White House legislative conference that the appropriation might clear the Senate this afternoon and reach the White House tonight.

Knowland said he expects the Senate to "go along" with the 41 million dollar house figure — six million short of what Postmaster General Arthur P. Summerfield originally asked.

Accepts Smaller Amount

He said the President reported that he would like Summerfield to get the full 47 million dollars. But the President, he added, would accept the smaller amount, recognizing the "practical situation" that Congress probably would not put up any more.

The Senate Appropriations Committee was called into session a half hour before the Senate was to meet.

Quick committee approval was expected. Leaders hoped to get the 41 million dollar emergency appropriation before the Senate for action later today.

But there was no assurance the Senate would actually go to work on the bill today. Unanimous consent is required for the Senate to waive its rule that appropriations must "lie over" for three days before the Senate acts on them.

A single senator could block action. This would delay the bill until Friday and might prevent restoration of full postal service this Saturday. Summerfield has said he will not restore service until the money bill is passed and signed by President Eisenhower.

There is not even any assurance the Senate will meet Friday. It is scheduled to quit for a long Easter recess at the close of business Thursday. It might, however, be held over until Friday if necessary to pass the postal bill.

Odds generally seemed to favor Senate action in time for restoration of mail deliveries and reopening of postal windows this Saturday. A post office spokesman has told the United Press full service could be restored "within 24 hours" after the money is available.

Actually, chances were Summerfield would give the order to restore service as soon as the Senate acts. Eisenhower's signature then would be just a matter of getting the final measure to the White House.

Three Get Life For Trying to Break Prison

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Three convicts have been sentenced to life imprisonment for trying to break out of Western Penitentiary.

The stiff penalties were invoked under a 1953 state law applying to cases in which a prison employe is held hostage. The case was the first in which the law has been invoked.

Visiting Judge J. Frank Graff of Armstrong County imposed the life terms Monday on Eugene Hammen, 29, and George Kalvitis, 41, both of Philadelphia, and Frank Ringler, 31, of McKeesport.

The convicts seized a guard and prison truck last July in an escape attempt, but the guard leaped from the truck and sounded an alarm. The convicts never got out of the prison yard.

All three had been serving time for burglary. Hammen was serving 14 to 41 years and Kalvitis and Ringler each 15 to 30 years.

John K. Klauzenberg, 28, Delaware County, got 7½ to 15 years for participating in the escape attempt and Robert J. Siembida, 23, Oil City, received an extra term of 1 to 2 years.

James Fleming, 28, Philadelphia, is yet to be tried for his part in the attempted break. Now serving a life term, he could get the death penalty if convicted under the 1953 law.

Tangier Island, Virginia, Gets Doctor at Last

TANGIER ISLAND, Va. (UP) — The isolated fishermen of little Tangier Island today at last had a doctor.

They had to go to Japan to find one.

The inhabitants of the island in the mouth of Chesapeake Bay 12 miles from the Virginia mainland have been looking for a doctor for four years.

Four years ago the 1,100 islanders decided they needed a doctor when the island's Methodist pastor suffered a heart attack and lay 17 days in bed without medical treatment.

The Virginia Council of Health and Medical Care offered to help the islanders find one. The council with the help of a Chicago placement bureau finally found Dr. Mikio Kato of Kobe, Japan. He promised to try it for a year.

The young, slightly-built doctor arrived from Japan Monday by plane.

All the island turned out to give him a great welcome. Then they escorted the grinning doctor to a $12,000 medical center that they had built for him.

"I like fishing people and I like fish," he said, happily.

School Board to Talk Over Budget Problems

Budget and tax problems of the Monessen School District, long discussed by school officials in private sessions, are expected to come into the open for the first time at a special meeting of the School Board tonight.

The board will meet in the office of Supt. Joseph Pallone in the High School at 8 p. m.

Although Dr. Pallone and members of the board have not talked for publication thus far, rumors have been current for several weeks that differences of opinion have arisen in connection with fiscal policies.

The proposed school budget for 1957-58 was scheduled to have been introduced publicly at the last regular meeting on April 8. But the action was postponed, apparently because agreement still has not been reached.

It is known that the school directors and Dr. Pallone have been in numerous private conferences over budget and tax matters. But these have not been mentioned in recent public meetings of the board.

It is also understood that Dr. Michael Duda, whom Dr. Pallone succeeded as superintendent last fall, has participated in some of the conferences. Dr. Duda is now president of California State Teachers College.

Sources close to the school situation have made it known that the private discussions have involved both a possible increase in real estate taxes and a bond issue. The latter, it is understood, would be used to meet obligations which the board has been meeting in recent

Bridge Freeing May 15

HARRISBURG (UP)—Highways Secretary Joseph J. Lawler said today continuation of the present rate of collections would assure freeing of the state's 10 remaining toll bridges by May 15 or several days thereafter.

The Highways Department reported gross toll receipts of $9,645,292 as of March 31. Expenses were $1,686,928 for a net of $7,958,364.

Income from the bridges has averaged nearly $100,000 monthly in the six-month period from Sept. 30, 1956 when the department said it needed an estimated $750,000 in tolls to liquidate the $8,500,000 bond issue covering purchase of the spans.

Gov. George M. Leader recently vetoed a Republican-sponsored bill which would have freed the bridges May 30. He said he disapproved the legislation because he did not want to delay lifting the tolls by even one day beyond the time necessary.

All Must Be Paid

The bridges were taken over by the state from private companies in 1949 and 1950 at a cost of $7,731,000. All but three of the spans have produced tolls in excess of their original costs but the law requires that all must be paid off before any may be freed.

The best moneymakers have been the New St. bridge, Bethlehem, which has brought in more than five times the original purchase price of $67,085, and the Sunbury bridge which has yielded more than twice its $651,181 cost.

The spans which have taken longer to pay their own way are the Market St. and Walnut St. bridges in Harrisburg, and the Eighth St. bridge in Allentown. The Market St. and Walnut St. bridges cost $3,397,264 and $1,194,864 respectively while the Eighth St. span cost $453,029.

The other bridges and their original costs are the Ellwood-Koppel, $275,457; Minst Trail, Bethlehem, $270,561; Charleroi-Monessen, $351,108, and Point Marion and Clarks Ferry, Duncannon, $325,778 and $531,685 respectively.

Redemption of the bonds next month will mean a savings of an estimated $100,000 in interest cost and freeing of the bridges four years ahead of schedule.

45 Cent Package Given Railroaders

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The United Steelworkers said today that maintenance workers of the Union Railroad will receive a total benefit package of 45.3 cents an hour under a strike-averting agreement signed with the U.S. Steel Corp. subsidiary.

The USW said that the 1,100 workers will receive wage increases amounting to 28 cents an hour, spread over the three years of the new agreement. Of the amount, 12½ cents will be retroactive to Dec. 1, 1956 and another 3 cents will be retroactive to April 1.

In addition the workers will receive increases of 2½ cents an hour May 1, 5 cents Nov. 1 and another 5 cents Nov. 1, 1958.

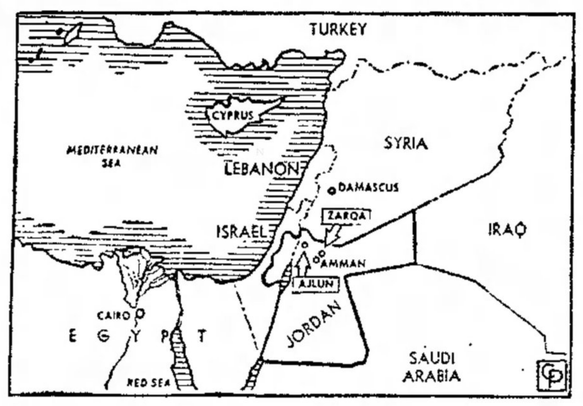
The settlement also includes provisions covering insurance, supplemental unemployment benefits and pensions, the union said, and the total package approximates that granted by the basic steel industry last summer.

Steel Workers Holiday Friday

PITTSBURGH (UP) — The nation's steel workers will have a paid holiday this Good Friday for the first time in history.

Under terms of the agreement signed between the steel industry last summer and the United Steelworkers, eligible employes who do not work will receive their regular straight time earnings for the day plus applicable incentive earnings.

Those who work on the day will be paid double time in addition to the holiday pay. Addition of Good Friday gives USW members seven paid holidays a year. The others are New Year's, Memorial Day, Independence Day, Thanksgiving, Christmas and Labor Day.



JORDAN ARMY MUTINOUS — Reports of mutinous army clashes in Jordan, at Zarqa and Ajlun (Aljoun), add live coals to the already over-heated Jordan political situation. The clashes reportedly were between anti-west factions and factions loyal to King Hussein. The Arabs fear Israel will invade Jordan, and Israel fears Syria will try to take over.

Struggle for Power Not Over in Jordan

By UNITED PRESS

King Hussein restored stability to Jordan for the time being today, but the struggle for power in that impoverished Middle East land is far from over.

A new government purged of Communists and extremists and headed by Dr. Hussein Khalidi, a Palestinian with some sympathies for the West but with a bitter hatred of Zionism and Israel, had the difficult job of mapping Jordan's future between the contending East and West.

Jordan's reason for existence was largely eliminated with the recent abrogation of the pact which made it the base for stationing British troops in the Mid-east and the recipient of British subsidies to keep its economy solvent.

But it still is involved in the great power struggle between the bloc of Arab states dominated by Egypt and the more pro-Western Arab states led by Iraq.

Huessein Victory

The week-old crisis that ended Monday with Khalidi's success in forming a government is generally interpreted as a conditional victory for Hussein.

He ousted pro-Egyptian and pro-Soviet former Premier Suleiman Nabulsi, but he was unable to keep Nabulsi out of the Khalidi cabinet, where he holds the post of foreign minister.

Informed sources in Beirut, Lebanon, said the Soviet Union had intervened during the crisis in an unsuccessful effort to keep Nabulsi in power. The Russians couldn't keep him in the top job, but he remains very much in a position of influence. The basic issue now is whether Jordan will pursue a pro-Western or a leftist foreign policy.

Embezzler Asks Tax Indictments Be Dismissed

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Attorneys for Milo K. Ruse, former Fayette County bank president who admitted embezzling from his own bank, have asked Federal Court to dismiss indictments accusing him of income tax evasion.

Ruse, 57, Point Marion, has been indicted on charges he reported income of $21,000 in 1950 and $16,000 in 1951 when he actually made $33,000 in 1950 and $20,000 in 1951.

His attorneys contended in court Monday that Internal Revenue Service agents failed to inform him they were looking for fraud when they inspected his financial records. They charged this was a violation of his constitutional rights.

Ruse pleaded guilty in 1953 to embezzling $152,177 from the First National Bank of Point Marion, of which he was president. He made restitution and was placed on three years probation.

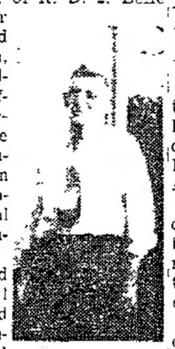
Harry Prewitt, Victim; Young Couple Critical

A 73-year old Rostraver Township man was killed instantly when struck by a motorcycle on Route 51 in Rostraver Township about 7:30 last night.

A young couple riding on the motorcycle was injured critically.

Dead is Harry Prewitt, of R. D. 2, Belle Veron. He was hit by the cycle in front of his home and pronounced dead at the scene, according to Westmoreland County Coroner Stephen D. Yoney.

Dale Lynn, 22, of R. D. 2, Belle Vernon, operator of the cycle, and his wife, Jean, 21, who was riding with him, suffered skull fractures and were reported in critical condition in Charleroi - Monessen Hospital late this morning.



Mr. Prewitt

Prewitt died from a skull fracture and multiple external and internal injuries.

Prewitt left his home shortly before the accident to bury a dog left dead after being struck by a hit-run driver. As he was going from east side of the road to the west side, the cycle came up over a hill and struck him head-on. Death was instant.

The husband and wife were thrown from the vehicle and landed on the cement highway, their heads striking the hard surface. They were unconscious when rushed to the hospital.

Prewitt, a retired shearman from the former Carnegie-Illinois tin mill plant, in Monessen, was a custodian at the Monessen State Armory at Ninth St. and Donner Ave. at the time of his death.

Wife Is Survived

A native of Columbus, Ohio, Prewitt belonged to the Monessen Knights of Phythias Lodge and Olive Branch Baptist Church in Rostraver Township.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Fannie Cadby Prewitt, and a son, Clinton C. Prewitt, of Pittsburgh. Two grandchildren also survive.

Fayette County Jail Warden Is Held on Charge

Jack L. Cochrane, warden of the Fayette County jail, was arrested yesterday on an extortion charge brought by Wendell C. Ford, of Uniontown, who was a jail prisoner last month.

Cochrane was freed on $500 bond pending a hearing set for 4 p. m. tomorrow before Uniontown Alderman William F. Whitby.

Ford was arrested last month on a charge of failing to provide for his mother's support. Shortly after he was jailed, he claims he was freed on bond after his employer had sent $30 to Cochrane, at Cochrane's request.

The Fayette County Prison Board has set a hearing for next Saturday to determine if Cochrane was guilty of any infractions in connection with the issuance of a bond to Ford.

Ohio Librarian Named To Fill Vacancy Here

Miss Vivian L. Drake, of Maumee, Ohio, has been appointed librarian of the Monessen Public Library, it was announced today by Charles C. Throop, president of the Civic Library Association.

The appointment fills a vacancy which has existed since the death of the previous librarian, Mrs. Eugene Feldman, about two years ago.

In the interim the Library has been in charge of Mrs. Margaret Ashe, a long-time member of the staff who has been serving in the capacity of acting librarian.

Mrs. Ashe asked to be relieved of her duties several months ago, in order to make her home with her son in Alexandria, Va., but has remained until a permanent librarian could be engaged.

Library Board Asking Bids to Raze Buildings

The Monessen Public Library today asked for bids for the demolition of old buildings now standing on the site of the proposed new Library building at 324-330 Donner Ave.

The structures consist of a double building, formerly a hotel but more recently used as storerooms and apartments, and a single two-story structure formerly owned by the Saivation Army.

Harry R. Pore, Jr., chairman of the Library's building committee, said that although plans for the new building are still indefinite, the existing structures are largely vacant.

The properties were in poor condition when they were acquired by the Library, he said, and repair bills, taxes and insurance have been eating up the dwindling rental income.

"Our board of directors decided to ask for proposals on removal of the buildings," Pore said. "If we receive an acceptable bid, we will clear the site immediately."

Bidders are asked to submit sealed proposals before 5 p. m. on April 30. Bids are subject to approval of the directors. Specifications appear in an advertisement on the Classified page of today's Daily Independent.

Convictions of Vice Officials Upheld by Court

PHLADELPHIA (UP) — The convictions of three members of the now disbanded Pittsburgh police vice squad charged with doctoring testimony against suspected morals offenders were upheld Monday by the state Supreme Court.

The high court affirmed the decision of the Superior Court, which ruled the officers were guilty as charged. The three patrolmen, Alan Tanser, Guy Russo, and Martin J. Scanlon.

Tanser was previously convicted of perjury, but the Supreme Court "reluctantly" reversed the conviction because his constitutional rights were violated when the prosecution failed to produce a vital witness.

The cases of the three have been pending since 1952 when they were accused of altering testimony against morals offenders in order to extort money from them.

The convicted patrolmen, who remained on the force pending final ruling, now face jail terms of six to 12 months.

U. S. Airlines Fuming Mad

Hit Action Of State Department

By LOUIS CASSELS

WASHINGTON (UP)—U.S. airlines are fuming mad at the State Department.

They say it already has given away millions of dollars worth of their business by granting Dutch and German lines lucrative new air routes into his country. And they fear further "give aways" will result from forthcoming negotiations with the British, Swiss, Belgians, and Australians.

The answer from State Department officials is that American-flag carriers earn twice as much abroad as foreign airlines earn in this country, and are taking a short-sighted view of their own best interests.

Argument Grows Hot

If Americans make too big an issue of protecting their airlines from foreign competition, the U.S. diplomats say, other countries will retaliate. In the long run, they say, the United States stands to lose more than anybody.

The argument has been growing hotter since last April, when the State Department gave the West German airlines Lufthansa access to five major U.S. cities in return for the rights which Pan American and Trans World Airlines have had in Germany since the war.

Early this month, over loud protests from U.S. carriers and the Civil Aeronautics Board, the department signed an agreement with The Netherlands permitting the Dutch KLM line to stop at Houston, Tex., on its Montreal-Mexico City route, and to operate directly from New York to The Netherlands' Antilles in the Caribbean. The issue was carried to President Eisenhower, who backed up the State Department.

Coming up are negotiations with the Australians in May, with the British in June, with the Belgians and Swiss in July. All are expected to seek new routes into or out of the United States.

Seeking Legislation

U.S. airlines are so apprehensive about these negotiations that they are urging Congress to rush through legislation to curb the executive branch's broad discretionary powers in signing international air route agreements.

One bill, already passed by the Senate and awaiting House action, would make U.S. airlines an official party to all future route negotiations. Another introduced in the Senate would give air route agreements the status of treaties, requiring Senate ratification.

"The State Department is like a girl who can't say no," said a spokesman for the Air Transport Assn., which represents major U.S. airlines in Washington.

"It will give away anything in order to be friends with these foreign countries. The whole U. S. air transport system is going to wind up on government subsidy if Congress doesn't stop the diplomats from giving away our traffic."

Ladies Win Round in Battle of Sexes; 'Henpecked' Group Quits

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UP) — Score one for the ladies in the battle of the sexes. The "Henpecked Husbands Association, Inc.," has quit, thrown in the towel, left the battlefield.

The Association was formed and legally incorporated here about three years ago to "set an example to all married males that will allow husbands to rededicate themselves to the principles of liberty and free speech."

A basic aim of the group, as outlined in the articles of incorporation, was to "outlaw nagging, unreasonable demands for explanations of husbands' spare time, breath smelling and examination of husbands' apparel for powder, lipstick and blonde tresses."

But alas, a certificate to dissolve the association has been filed with the Sangamon County recorder of deeds.

Why this surrender? William L O'Brien, former secretary-treasurer of the group was asked.

Started As Gag

"I'm sorry to see it break up," O'Brien said. "The association got started as a gag, but we had lots of fun with it."

"Surprisingly enough," he said, "once we got started here we received letters from all over the country from like - minded husbands who wanted to start their own chapters.

"Of course, we got a few letters from women that weren't very complimentary. One woman in particlaur really blessed us out."

The Association had about 150 members at its peak, O'Brien said.

The Association met at least once a month in the back room of a Springfield tavern to plot its war on nagging wives.

A favorite tactic, O'Brien recalled, was to remove the automatic washing machine from a member's home and replace it with a tub and scrub board, as a punishment for nagging.

Mrs. O'Brien recalled that bit of strategy, too. It was used on her.

"I just didn't do the wash for a while, and when he got enough dirty shirts, the washing machine came back home," she said.

Wayne Wallace, former president of the Association, said he also regretted its passing. "I think it could have been made into quite a thing if anybody wanted to," he said.

The idea for the Association was born during a night-out at a local night spot by several of the original members and their wives.

The articles of incorporation were drawn up by John Curren, a Springfield attorney who included in the aims of the group a fight against the "continuous search and seizure of husbands' trousers, particularly the pockets thereof and their contents."

"Well, it was fun," O'Brien said.

Coke Company Earnings Up

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Pittsburgh Coke & Chemical Company today reported the highest first quarter profit in its history.

Henry L. Hillman, president, said earnings for the first quarter of 1957 were $908,000, nine per cent higher than in the corresponding period of 1956. Sales were $13,624,000.

Hillman said liquidation of the company's subsidiary Great Lakes Steamship Co., Inc., and sale of its vessels will result in a non-recurring profit of some $4 million after taxes, although actual receipt of Pittsburgh Coke's share will not occur until 1958.

community, but also on members of their own unions."

Can't Tolerate Crime

McClellan said such practices are a crime against the whole community and cannot be tolerated. He said he hoped the hearings will lead to corrective legislation.

The chairman said the Scranton hearings — the committee's first since its sensational investigation of racketeering in Portland, Ore., and the finances of Teamster President Dave Beck—will develop "what may be a classic example of the use of force and violence in labor - management relations."

McClellan said in the 1930s most violence in labor relations was started by employers to keep workers from joining unions. But he said that does not justify union violence now.

He said the committee has received complaints from all over the country of "threats, intimidation, physical violence and the destruction of property."

Most of them he said, are directed against "officials or hired thugs and goons of labor unions." But, some are charged against management, he added.

McClellan said complaints of the use of force have come from New York City; Nashville, Tenn.; Philadelphia; Joplin, Mo.; Charlotte, N.C.; Los Angeles; Chicago, and Portsmouth, Ohio.

He said his committee will investigate some of these complaints later. He gave no details of the cases.

Special Projects Secondary; Bloom Outlines Position

HARRISBURG (UP)—Republican State Chairman George I. Bloom has served notice that action on all "special projects" requiring money will be deferred by the GOP-controlled Legislature until agreement is reached on general appropriations for running the state government.

"The big question, as in all budget matters whether family, community or state, is how much money have we available to spend, and how much can we afford to pay for what we want," Bloom said.

Bloom said he outlined the Republican position during a conference with Mayor Richardson Dilworth of Philadelphia in Washington. He said Dilworth presented the Philadelphia legislative program "and asked me to support it in the Legislature."

"I told him it was my understanding that it was the Republican policy to defer action on all additional or special projects or programs, many of which had merit, until the general appropriation bill has been agreed upon," Bloom said. "This policy has been established for the common sense reason that until it is determined how much revenue remains after the regular and established functions of the state government have been provided for, there is no way of knowing how much money will remain for other valid and meritorious activities."

Pope in Warning to Headline Writers

VATICAN CITY (UP) — Pope Pius XII warned newsmen in an address made public today against the temptation of the "one-inch headline" based on "calumny and slander."

The Pope made his remarks on journalistic ethics during an audience Monday to a group of 21 American newsmen traveling through Europe on a tourist flight. He addressed them as "gentlemen of the press and of the skies."

"But your profession holds you very close to this earth with its restless, often enough bewildered, blinded masses and the day-by-day uncertain promises and hopes and menaces," the Pope said.

"You understand the grave responsibility resting on you. Be conscious of it when you write. You have your ethical principles worthy of a noble art. Yet you will agree there is an evil press abroad that scorns these norms. Bring the weight of your honorable loyalty and fearless examples to thwart the harm it can do.

"Calumny and scandal, how quick-footed they are!"

"A whisper, harmless perhaps, though unwarranted, is blown up to a one-inch headline, and what havoc it can wreak in family life, in the lives of individuals and nations! A scoop is not worth the deep sense of shame that should come to one guilty of such conduct."

The Pope said "one may well shudder at the flood of error... let loose by the communications media today."

He urged newsmen to think of the "thousands and millions of people who may be affected by what you write," and "give them at all times the truth, as far as your serious research can ascertain it."

years through short-term bank loans.

At the last meeting the directors authorized another such loan for $40,000 to enable the district to pay current bills pending receipt of tax revenues.

However, the loan has not yet been negotiated, and one source stated that the district is having difficulty getting the money. Usually the Monessen office of the Mellon National Bank has made the loans.

It is expected that some of these problems will come to light at tonight's meeting, which is open to the public.

Librarian

charge of the Library on May 1, and Mrs. Ashe will be relieved as of June 1.

Miss Drake, who is now serving as supervisor of work with adults in the Lucas County Library at Maumee, near Toledo, has had extensive experience in both public and college library work.

She holds a bachelor of science degree in education from Miami University, Oxford, Ohio. She received the bachelor of science in library science at Columbia University and the master of arts in library science at the University of Michigan in 1952.

Before taking her present position in 1952, Miss Drake had served in the libraries of Southern Illinois University, the University of Cincinnati, Vassar College and Bard College and the Cincinnati Public Library.

Pointing out that the Library is on the verge of a major expansion, Throop said:

"Our directors feel that in Miss Drake we have found an exceptionally well qualified person. She has the training, the experience and the enthusiasm to make a fine contribution to our plans for the new building, and, once it is occupied, to provide Monessen with truly outstanding library service."

The Library has acquired a site in the 300 block of Donner Ave. for the new building, and plans are being prepared by J. Russell Bailey, of Orange, Va., an architect who specializes in the library field. Associated with Bailey is H. Ernest Clark, registered architect, of Monessen.

Held for Court On Assault Charge

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Two employes of Mayview State Hospital have been ordered held for court on assault and battery charges brought by a former mental patient.

The defendants, David C Robinson, Pittsburgh, and Francis W. O'Neil, of Canonsburg, declined to testify Monday night at a hearing before Justice of the Peace Ralph Biondi of Scott Twp.

The charges were brought by Chester A. Waddle, Pittsburgh, who was committed to Mayview last Feb 15 but escaped on March 25. His commitment was revoked April 10 by Allegheny County Court on recommendation of the County Behavior Clinic after Waddle's family said they would care for him.

Dr Regis F Downey, Mayview superintendent, described Robinson and O'Neil as "highly trusted aides."

Budget-cutters Tied on Agricultural Increase

WASHINGTON (UP)—Administration budget officials have added 75 million dollars to their estimate of federal farm spending in fiscal 1958 in a way that leaves little the economy minded Congress can do about it.

There was no formal announcement of the change from officials who last week announced public hey had cut 254 million dollars from the Agriculture Department's budget.

A department official said today the increase will be put on record officially in a "budget review" in mid-summer.

The official said the increase will come in loan funds paid to rural electric and telephone cooperatives by the department's rural electrification administration.

The loans are repayable over a 35-year period.

The hands of budget-cutting lawmakers are tied in a practical sense because the loans involved were approved by REA and the funds authorized by Congress three and four years ago. To cut down on these loans now would be to break a government commitment to the rural cooperatives.

When the administration's record-breaking peacetime budget went to Congress last January, Agriculture Department officials estimated they would pay out 255 million dollars to electric cooperatives during the year.

"Now it looks as if it will be 75 million dollars more than that," a department budget specialist said.

Soviet Having Serious Economic Difficulties

Blame Put on Competition with Capitalist System

By K. C. THALER

LONDON (UP)—Soviet Russia, which boasts of the troubles of the capitalist system, has run into serious economic difficulties itself.

The Soviet government, in an attempt to straighten things out, has been compelled to effect a radical readjustment of its entire economic system and to declare a moratorium of 20 to 40 years on the redemption of the state bond which its people are forced to buy.

Ironically, experts on Russia attribute a large part of the troubles of the Moscow regime to its attempt to compete with the capitalist system at which it sneers.

Over-organization, over-concentration of control and over-estimation of Russia's productive capacity are at fault.

The experts say that the recent announcements mean that Russia has failed dismally in its ambitious program of industrial development.

As the result, they say, Russia has no chance of reaching its goal of overtaking production by 1960.

"By that time Russia will not even be in sight of the American output of power, steel and machinery production, let alone the supply of consumer goods," one expert said.

There are five major factors behind Russia's present economic troubles:

—Over-planning and top-heavy organization. They have cramped the pattern of economic development.

—The strain on financial and other resources. These, while great, have been disorganized by politically-ensured demands for unrealistic results.

—The tremendous cost of ambitious programs for nuclear weapons and nuclear power.

—The fact that the East European satellite countries have become liabilities for Russia instead of assets.

—Russia's costly attempt to compete with the West, notably the United States, in penetrating the underdeveloped countries of the world with offers of economic aid.

Experts say that, despite the remedial measures now being taken, Russia's difficulties are likely to increase.

Charges Leader Used Veto to Halt Economy

HARRISBURG (UP)—The chairman of the House Appropriations Committee charged today Gov. George M. Leader used his veto power to kill legislation aimed at halting "easy-going spending" by the administration.

Rep. Norman Wood (R-Lancaster) said "it is now clear that the people can't count on Gov. Leader to do anything to reduce the cost of government in Pennsylvania.

"When he vetoed the bill cutting five million dollars in surplus funds from the 1955-57 appropriation to the Revenue Department, it was a signal to every department on Capitol Hill that they have nothing to fear—he will stop the Legislature from halting their easy-going spending," he said.

Leader vetoed the bill Friday, contending the Legislature was usurping executive authority in reducing the amount of a former appropriation. He pointed out part of the reduction would have hampered enforcement work in the Sales Tax Bureau. The administration had set a $3,100,000 overage figure in the appropriation.

Wood charged the governor wanted a "docile" Legislature which will approve his budget "without question" and never ask questions about money previously appropriated.

Trinity Church To Hold Special Services Friday

The Rev. Mr. David Dillon, Jr., priest-in-charge at Trinity Episcopal Church, has announced there will be a one-hour complete service on Good Friday from 1 until 2 p. m.

Members of the parish are asked to attend for the full hour. There will be evening prayer and a special sermon by the Rev. Mr. Dillon.

Guest speaker on Easter Sunday morning at 11:15 o'clock will be the Rt. Rev. Quentin K. L. Huang, who will also administer the sacrament of Holy Communion.

Bishop Huang, who is known as the "Bishop of the Burma Road" was held prisoner by the Communists for some time and has only been in this country for a few years. For more than a year he has been assisting with Pittsburgh Diocesan duties.

The service will be 15 minutes later than usual in order that Bishop Huang may have time to get here following a service in Clairton.

Meaning of Easter—

'Modern Man' May Misunderstand Easter

(Following is the second in a series of four articles by leading Protestant and Catholic theologians of the meaning of Easter to modern man. The author is professor of New Testament literature at Virginia Episcopal Theological Seminary, Alexandria, Va.)

By Dr. Albert T. Mollegen

ALEXANDER, Va. (UP) — The "modern man" tends to misunderstand Christianity's Easter message, the resurrection of Christ.

He becomes involved immediately in questions about the historical details, the manner of the resurrection, the credibility of the testimony about the empty tomb. Since these were not the primary interests of the authors of the New Testament, the New Testament does not seem to meet and answer the questions of the "modern mind."

The New Testament and the Christian churches are primarily concerned to witness to their continuing experience of the risen lord and their accounts are to be understood as just witness.

The first resurrection - experiences show their unique power in at least three ways. First, there is the existence of the Christian Church. Without the resurrection-event Good Friday would be a bad Friday and there would be no New Testament (new covenant of God with man through Christ) and no Christian folk. At best, Jesus would be understood to be a great Jewish prophet who suffered martyrdom and whose vindication awaits the end of the world. The New Testament as a literature, as a record of the new covenant and as the Christian portion of the Bible, together with the great Christian people (all the Christians in all of history, past, present and future), shows the incredible power of the Resurrection experience.

New Relationship

Secondly, this decisive event created a completely different and new relationship of man to God, to himself, to society, to time and space. A simple illustration of this is the Christian calendar with its years before Christ and its years of our Lord Christ in the power of his resurrection brought all time into unity and single meaning. Time and history are either before Christ or are his time and history, B.C. or A.D. Furthermore, the power of Christ's resurrection created the Lord's Day (Sunday) and supplanted the Jewish Sabbath (Saturday) and all pagan central holy days. The very pattern of the Western week manifests the transforming power of Christ's resurrection.

Thirdly, the new life of countless millions, who receive that life from the risen Lord through their communion with him in the context of the word and sacraments, is a clear manifestation of the truth of Christ's resurrection. This newness is written into the quality of Western culture, the conception of justice in our laws, the structure of our political and social institutions. Sometimes a Westerner comes to realize what Christ has brought the world only when he contrasts Christian civilization with a non-Christian or an anti-Christian (Nazi, for instance) civilization.

Presbyterians to Hold Campaign To Raise $40,000

A campaign for funds among members of the First Presbyterian Church of Monessen in order to liquidate a $40,000 indebtedness will begin April 24 and continue through May 5, it was announced today.

The church recently completed a $125,000 building program, which included addition of a new sanctuary and improvements to the existing buildings at McKee Ave. and Sixth St. A campaign in 1954 realized more than $85,000.

A campaign organization of about 40 workers under the general chairmanship of Harry R. Pore, Jr., held a planning meeting at the church last night.

The drive will begin with a Congregational Information Dinner to be held at the church Wednesday, April 24, and solicitation is expected to be completed May 5.

The workers have been divided into six teams, each under the leadership of a captain. The captains are George B. Lee, Mrs. G. E. Haury, Francis W. Seanor, Arley E. Moreland, Boyd E. Krebs and Mrs. R. E. Weddell.

In addition to the chairman and captains, the following others make up the campaign cabinet: the Rev. Abner P. Richard, Jr., the pastor; Mrs. Olive Travis, treasurer, and William H. Pore, publicity.

Members will be asked to make pledges payable over a two-year period.

Communion Service Tonight at Church

A service of Holy Communion will be held in St. Luke's Evangelical Lutheran Church this evening at 7 o'clock.

'Shot' Rod

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (UP) — Magistrate Harley Hallett sentenced Ives Ste. Onge, 19, to a two-month jail term Monday for assaulting his own car. Police said Ste. Onge apparently got mad at his car after getting involved in an accident and began shooting at it. The charge was illegal possession of a gun.

Allegheny Ludlum Shows Sales Drop

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Allegheny Ludlum Steel Corporation today reported sales of $81,294,626 and earnings of $4,790,665 for the first quarter of 1957.

The sales total was slightly below the record volume reported in the last quarter of 1956 but was the second highest in the company's history.

The earnings amounted to $1.25 per share of common. In the corresponding quarter of 1956, sales were $74,774,665 and earnings were $4,372,608, equal to $1.23 per share of common.

CAPTURED BY MOVIE FILMS — This trio, believed the first bank robbers ever apprehended through use of movie films, looks none too happy in custody in Cleveland. They are (from left) Steven Ray Thomas, 24, and two 18-year-old girls. Rose Therese O'Donnell (middle) and Wanda DiCenzi. They admitted robbing a savings and loan firm of $2,400 after being identified through use of films made by a movie camera installed only the day before the robbery.

Kefauver Against Utility Tax Cuts

WASHINGTON (UP) — Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) today demanded that private electric light and power companies be denied tax deductions for programs "brainwashing" the American public.

Kefauver told the Senate that the companies for some time have been running a "false and misleading" advertising campaign against TVA, Niagara, Hells Canyon, the Rural Electrification Administration and "public power generally."

He said Harrington wrote that Internal Revenue Commissioner Russell C. Harrington that a study of such advertising is in progress.

He said Harrington wrote that if he found that the purpose of the advertising was "lobbying or attempting by propaganda or otherwise to promote or defeat legislation" that tax deductions would not be allowed.

Kefauver said the advertising campaign began after a survey made for the National Association of Electric Companies showed that "TVA was very popular but socialism was not." Therefore, he said, the "cold-blooded decision was made to link TVA with socialism."

The funds spent on this campaign were "considerable," he said.

"There is little doubt in my mind that these companies have been charging the public, through income tax deductions, for their own brainwashing," he said.

Teamsters Board Meets at Galveston

GALVESTON, Tex. (UP)—The executive board of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters decides today whether to answer up May 16 to AFL-CIO charges of corruption or thumb its nose at the united labor body.

Also at issue, although less directly, may be the future of Teamster President Dave Beck, who was suspended from his AFL-CIO vice presidency after he invoked the Fifth Amendment, 117 times, before Senate questions into his handling of union funds.

Beck was quoted Monday night as saying that if he answered those questions "it might blow the lid right off the Senate." He said he was "taking the rap" for "a lot of fine people."

He was quoted as saying: "I think these restrictions on contributions are all wrong. But if I start talking about contributions it's going to embarrass a lot of fine people whom I don't want to hurt."

The inference was drawn that Beck had made political contributions in violation of the Taft-Hartley law with the union funds which the Senate charged he had diverted to his own use. Beck had previously said in a TV press conference that he borrowed the $300,000 without interest and had paid it back.

Beck is understood to favor a double snub for the AFL-CIO Ethical Practices Committee, which has invited him and the union to separate hearings next month.

The Middle East Needs a Chance

THE FEVER of the Middle East seems to be rising again. But although the outbreak which now threatens is in a place somewhat removed from the Suez Canal-Gaza Strip area, it is clear that it also stems from the ancient and chronic turbulence of the area.

Jordan, where the latest trouble has developed, is perhaps the weakest of the Arab nations and therefore the most susceptible to the agitations which can always find fertile soil in the Middle East. Jordan, like some of the other countries of the area, including to an extent, Israel, is an artificial creation. It existed until a year or so ago almost entirely by British subsidization, and since the British gave up their protectorate, it has been a continuing question whether Jordan can continue to exist — or even whether it should continue to exist.

But until this question is decided one way or the other, Jordan is likely to be useful to those who have a vested interest in the perpetual strife of the Middle East, including the Communists.

THE POLICY of the United Nations and of the United States, it would seem, is going to have to be based primarily upon efforts to prevent conflict between Israel and any of its Arab neighbors. The world cannot take the chance that such a conflict could be localized and kept from developing into major war involving the big powers.

This idea is criticized on the grounds that it is a mere stopgap and does not really deal with the root troubles of the area. And this is obviously true.

But the root troubles of the Middle East are so emotional in nature and of such ancient standing that they do not lend themselves to the kind of pat diplomatic solutions that are sometimes successful in solving less complicated international problems.

So the best chance of peace seems to be to take adequate measures, including military ones, to prevent a conflict and then to work patiently and ingeniously to create an atmosphere in which Israel and the Arab countries can live as mutually tolerant neighbors.

This, of course, does not satisfy such impatient zealots as the Zionists in the United States, whose devotion to Israel's cause sometimes seems to blind them even to best interests of their own country, which are not identical with those of Israel in all particulars.

But if Israel and the Arabs can be prevented from tearing each other apart, patient effort may have a chance to succeed in teaching them how to live together. And that seems a far better hope than for the major powers to attempt to impose on one or the other conditions which will not let them develop in peace and dignity.

Need for a United Fund Is Growing

THE COMMUNITIES of this area are continuing to experience their chronic difficulties with a multiplicity of fund-raising campaigns for charitable and welfare causes.

The March of Dimes campaign to finance the fight against polio began in January. It was hardly completed until it was time for the annual Heart Fund appeal. Then came the Red Cross, and that drive was not completed in this area before the American Cancer Society launched its promotion, which is under way at the present time as is the Easter Seal appeal for crippled children.

Although the Cancer Society and Easter Seal results are not yet known, the March of Dimes was the only drive mentioned above which could have been called a success. In fact, the Red Cross appeal, probably the most vital of all, was so far behind at the scheduled end of its campaign in March that it has had to be continued indefinitely. A final report is still not available.

As for the Cancer Society drive, this is the second appeal for cancer to be made to the people of Monessen in a period of six months. That is because the Westmoreland County Cancer Fund, which does not speak to the American Cancer Society, is a beneficiary of the Monessen Community Fund. The Community Fund drive of last October and November, of course, fell considerably short of its quota as it has been doing for several years.

What is the meaning of this disorder, confusion and almost unrelieved failure of fund-raising activity in this locality?

It means simply that the community is not meeting its charitable obligations properly. And it's been our opinion for a long time that it won't until something is done to bring order out of chaos, to enable us to concentrate our civic energies and to give the people some assurance that their charitable gifts are being apportioned in relation to need.

The answer, in our judgment, is a United Fund and preferably on a regional basis.

Merry-Go-Round—

Senate Won't Apologize in Norman Case

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Sen. Tom Hennings of Missouri has drafted a resolution of senatorial apology to Canada for making public the secret security data which brought about the suicide of Herbert Norman, Canadian Ambassador to Egypt.

Mr. Pearson

Such an apology was what the Canadian government has wanted, since it regards the Senate, not the State Department, as responsible for breaking confidence. However, there's little likelihood that the Senate would pass such a resolution unless drastically watered down.

About 90 of the 96 senators might favor such an apology privately, but publicly few are likely to back it — for an interesting and significant reason. The reason goes to the heart of why the Senate Internal Security subcommittee has been allowed to operate almost at will.

Chairman of the Internal Security subcommittee is big, balding, cigar-smoking Jim Eastland of Mississippi, Democrat. Eastland is also chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee and, as such, influences private bills.

These are the bills for pensions, immigration permits, citizenship, damages, etc., which every senator must squeeze through Congress in order to get re-elected. They constitute the great bulk of every session's legislation. And since Jim Eastland sits as czar over the Judiciary Committee, he can block them or speed them.

So only a few senators want to antagonize Jim Eastland by pushing an apology to Canada which would reflect on him.

Republicrat Committee

That's also why few want to interfere with the way Eastland runs the Internal Security subcommittee. Though Eastland is a Democrat, the committee is run by Republicans. Eastland himself is consulted by the Eisenhower administration on job appointments in Mississippi. He has more power with Republicans than most Democrats, undoubtedly more power than he ever had with a Democratic administration.

Working with him as virtual co-chairman of Internal Security is Sen. Bill Jenner of Indiana, Republican. They have appointed as counsel not a Democrat, but a New York Republican, Robert Morris, the man who published the security data on Ambassador Norman.

Morris is given complete freedom to do almost anything he pleases. He has even had government stenographers type Republican speeches on government time to be delivered at Lincoln Day dinners blasting Democrats under whom he serves. His associate counsel is William Rusher, another Republican, and the clerical staff includes Roy Garcia and Eleanor Melaney, also Republicans. This is unusual. When the Democrats control Congress they usually insist that personnel be Democrat.

Other senators have tried to curtail the Internal Security subcommittee without success. Early this year, the Rules Committee voted to cut its funds. Eastland and Republican friends quickly overrode this on the Senate floor, and the full amount, $89,291.45, was voted, with an additional proviso that a minority (Republican) counsel be added. This meant that an additional Republican, Rusher, was added, since Morris, a Republican, is appointed by Democratic Chairman Eastland.

The Democrats do have one staff lawyer on the subcommittee. Julian Sourwine, who resigned last year to run for the Senate in Nevada. After being swamped by Sen. Alan Bible, Sourwine came back to Washington looking for a meal ticket and was welcomed to the bosom of the committee.

Sourwine is the man who started a probe of the New York Times in the fall of 1955 when most members of the Internal Security subcommittee were out of town. It served as a build-up to run for the Senate later.

Both Morris and Sourwine know that they can always get 100 per cent support from a majority of the senators on their committee through the Republicrat team of Jenner and Eastland. Supporting them are Butler (Md.), Hruska (Neb., Republicans, and usually McClellan (Ark.) and Ervin (N. C., Democrats. Watkins of Utah, Republican, and Neely of West Virginia, Democrat, have opposed them, but are overridden.

Today and Tomorrow—

Tension Relaxed in Italy

By WALTER LIPPMANN

ROME — Returning to Rome, where I have not been for over three years, I have been struck by how much less dramatic and momentous is the atmosphere of public life. Always before this there has been great anxiety in which it was felt that Italy was one of the main theaters of the cold war. The times have changed. Though there is in fact a parliamentary crisis which may have important consequences, there is nothing like the tension of the post-war years.

Mr. Lippmann

The overall reason for this change is, I suppose, that Italy, like the rest of Europe, has outlived the post-war period, and with it the memories, the fears, and the preoccupations of the generation which participated in the war. But there are also more specific reasons why the moral atmosphere has changed so much.

One is, most obviously, the impressive success of the Italian reconstruction and revival. Italy has been greatly assisted by American foreign aid. But what the Italians are doing themselves is the reason why the foreign aid, which after all has been only marginal, has been so successfully used. I do not believe there is any country in which there is a greater buoyancy and such confidence in dealing with affairs.

Economic Revival

The booming economic revival undoubtedly goes far to explain the lowered tension of Italian political life. Other developments have contributed to it.

The death, and then the exposure of Stalin's abnormality, followed by what happened in Poland and in Hungary, have had a profound effect on the Communist Party. They have not destroyed it as a revolutionary party of the left. But they have gone far to destroy it as an instrument of Soviet foreign policy.

This is manifested in the rift, which is not however a divorce, between the Communists under Togliatti and the fellow traveling Socialists under Nenni. The rift is not so wide but that the left Socialists and the Communists are still cooperating in local Italian affairs. But it is wide enough so that in the field of high policy including foreign affairs Nenni and Togliatti no longer form a solid bloc.

I have been told by those who ought to know that the Nenni Socialists are not likely to divorce the Togliatti Communists, and then to temarry the right-wing Socialists led by Saragat who are now part of the government coalition. One man, who has been in the midst of it all, told me that Nenni would never break wholly with the Communists because he is too old for the battle and is afraid to face the vengeance of the Communists.

Coalition in Danger

There is a parliamentary crisis which will have to be resolved after the deputies return in May from their Easter holidays. The present government is a coalition, of which the predominant and central part is made up of the Christian Democrats. Although the Christian Democrats are the largest party, they do not command a majority. Only in coalition with two much smaller parties, the right-wing Social Democrats and the Liberals, can they form an effective government.

The present crisis is, I am told, due at bottom to the fact that there are to be elections next year. The party leaders are maneuvering for position. This raises the question of whether the existing coalition is to stand together or is to fall apart.

If the existing coalition falls apart, the chances are that no government can be formed which has a majority in the Parliament. In that event, presumably, the Christian Democrats, being the largest of the minorities, would form a government, and would then carry on precariously, leaning now to the right and now to the left.

The worst of this might be, it is said, to draw the issue sharply between the Christian Democrats and the Communists. The result might be to squeeze out the smaller individual parties of the right and of the left which, whatever else one may think of them, do so much to keep the issues conveniently blunted and blurred, and thus within moderate limits

Manager Plan Urged For Third Class Cities

(From the Sharon Herald)

The Herald has received a copy of Senate Bill 229, introduced in the upper house of the General Assembly on Feb. 19 and now being considered by the Senate's committee on local government.

It is called "An act giving cities of the Third Class the right and power to adopt one of several plans of optional charters and to exercise the powers and authority of local self-government, subject to certain restrictions and limitations; providing procedures for such adoption and defining the effect thereof."

As such it is planned as a step toward better government and a greater measure of home rule for all cities of the Third Class in Pennsylvania, which include Sharon and Farrell.

We have long been in sympathy with the purposes of this bill because we believe taxpayers in Third Class cities deserve a better form of government than the present commission form, with its various shortcomings and divisions of authority among the mayor and four councilmen.

Fortunately, the cities generally elect honest, conscientious officials, but they usually have full-time jobs in industry, business or the professions, with the result that they can devote only part of their time — and often only a small part — to municipal affairs. As a result, there frequently is a lack of initiative and proper planning for good government and community progress. Sometimes the mayor and councilmen have time only for the minimum of service required by the state for Third Class city administrations.

Frequently in the past we have asked for state legislation which would give our cities the opportunity to establish the council-manager system of government, which we believe to be the best from the standpoints of home rule and efficiency. Senate Bill 229 provides for this choice, among others, and we are hopeful that it will be enacted and signed by Governor Leader this year.

Many officials in Third Class cities also have been among the greatest boosters for such legislation. Serving under the present commission form of government, they quickly have discovered its inadequacies and learned of the need for a better form. They, too, have seen the merits of the council-manager setup, with its possibilities for greater service to the taxpayer and much more efficiency in the conduct of municipal affairs.

From a selfish political standpoint, some have objected to the council-manager plan. A few officials now elected — including the major and city treasurer — would be named by a five, seven or nine-man council under the provisions of Bill 229. The city manager, who also could serve as city clerk, would be employed by the council. Certain other positions, such as city solicitor, also would be appointed.

The city manager, of course, would be responsible to council, but the influence of individual members would be curbed by the proposed legislation. For example, hiring and firing would be entirely up to the manager. Therefore it is evident that there might be concern about loss of political power by some office-holders. But the city manager would not be all-powerful. He could be removed at any time by a majority vote of council.

Bill 229 will be taken up in the Senate later this month. Those who, like us, think its proposals are sound and desirable should speak up for it.

New York's Easter Parade a Tradition

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UP)—Part of New York's famous Easter Parade will be an indoor affair this year.

Next Sunday, at least nine style "spectaculars" in various hotels will compete with the traditional toe-bruising show on Fifth Avenue.

Gay Pauley

Everyone attending the new-style shows, with lunch included is helping a cause — from the American Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals to the Sister Elizabeth Kenny Foundation.

Admission ranges from $5 to $2 per person (champagne is included in the latter charge). The benefit shows aren't new, but each year their numbers increase as each year the Fifth Avenue Assn. and the New York Police Department attempt to curb the hi-jinks on the avenue. This year, for instance, is the seventh for the Kenny lunch and children's fashion show.

Expect Big Crowd

The association said it expected about two million persons to jam the avenue . . . a sharp contrast to the few hundred strollers who turned out when the parade had its beginnings at the lower end of Manhattan Island more than a century ago.

Then, the fashionable churches were downtown and it was the custom for the churchgoers to take a stroll along the streets when the services were over.

As the city grew, the churches and fashionable residences moved uptown. Some sources say that by the 1870's the parade was pretty well established, but it wasn't until the 1880's that the newspapers began to give it much space.

The Easter Parade had its unusual attractions early in its history. One account of the parade in the 1920s told of a party of "cigarette smoking girls" who strolled past St. Thomas and St. Patrick's cathedral "puffing with assurance and invoking the sensation for which they had hoped."

Survived 1929 Crash

The parade survived the Wall Street crash, and a United Press dispatch on the 1931 event began this way:

"Trying to forget the winter's dark days of bread lines and bad business, the women in today's Fifth Avenue Easter Parade wore anti-depression colors—vivid, geranium reds, emerald greens and blue jades."

As the parade grew, commercialism and publicity stunts crept in. Women tried to outdo each other in zany hats, and it wasn't unusual to see a woman wearing a bird cage with live bird in it, or an Easter basket with live bunny.

Four years ago, New York's civic-conscious decided the parade was losing its dignity completely and something should be done. The association, the police department, the clergy and radio and television executives joined to curb the stunts and commercialism.

Has the parade lost any of its appeal as a result?

"We doubt it," said William Sloane, association secretary. "The hi-jinks of a few years ago prevented the true purpose of the parade — to be a promenade of fashions."

The Lighter Side—

Do-It-Yourself Bull-Fights not for Quigg

By DOC QUIGG

LISBON (UP)—In this delightful country, where the law requires you to take an hour and a half for lunch and to shut up shop and office for the day at 6 p.m., they have what an American would call "do-it-yourself bullfights."

This is a sport unique to Portugal, for the man who doesn't have anything special to do on Sunday afternoon and who doesn't really care whether he comes back home to his wife—now or never.

Determined to witness this husband-elimination scheme at work, a group of touring American newspapermen went on a two-hour drive through the bull-breeding country outside Lisbon to the village of Salvaterra. There at the Restaurant Ribatejano, you can watch amateurs who came to dinner and stayed to brave bulls.

The bulls go with the meal, actually. They're thrown in free, along with the music and the fandango dancers who wear gaudy uniforms and long green stocking caps with red trim.

Chance For Tourists

Anybody can have a go at dangling a cape in front of the snorting critters, which come in sizes small enough to reduce their horsepower rating down to where they could do head-to-head battle with a steam shovel. There was much talk among the journalists—beforehand—about getting in the ring with one, just a gesture, old boy.

One sight of a rather small one—under 1,000 pounds—taking aim and making a target run on a Portuguese amateur in a checked sports cap and a gray Ike jacket was enough to bring about an editorial change of judgment.

The amateur, though seeming quite graceful and skillful, was spilled once and, another time, fell down himself and came within a horns whicket of being gored.

In the real, professional bullfights in Portugal, the law prohibits killing the bull. When the proprietor of the restaurant-and-ring asked the gawking tourists if anyone would like to step up and try his luck, a reporter quoted the law and said: "Please ask the bull if he would extend the same courtesy to the tourist."

Face Tired Bulls

Actually, they get the bull pretty tired before the amateur gets into the ring, goading him into futile charges by jumping from behind barricades and waving hats at him. Then the amateur matador gets him tireder sull. Finally he is ready for the real sport, a sort of bull-wrestling in which a man meets him head on, seizing the horns and taking the bulls lunge in the pit of the stomach.

The sport is called "pega" in Portugal. The bulldogger we saw was another amateur, named Marques, a broad-shouldered son of one of the restaurant proprietors. For a while it was hard to tell which was being dogged, the man or the bull.

Marques and a couple of brawny lads closed in and grappled with the bull on each side. Finally Marques pulled the head forward and down on top of him as he went down backward on his back, and the bull with much tugging was flip-flopped over the supine man's head, landing on its back in a sort of flying mare act out of wrestling.

It recovered quickly. So did the men. They ran for cover.

Family groups drop into the restaurant on a Sunday afternoon for a noonday meal, which, I can tesify, is nothing short of huge. It consists of six courses, each with appropriate side dishes—soup, fish, steak and eggs, chicken, rice dessert, and sugar smothered oranges. The guests probably are forced to turn to amateur bull fighting to settle their stomachs.

Brown Bids for Spot on Track Team

Monessen's Felton Brown is a sure-fire bet to make the fine track team at Westminster College. He's regarded as the most promising freshman on the squad . . . Incidentally Felton has already appeared in two meets, placing second in the 50-yard dash at both the senior and junior Allegheny Mountain AAU indoor meets at South Park . . . Brownsville High has organized a bowling team and wants to schedule matches with other district high schools . . . And who do you suppose are the two fastest dash men on the current Donora High track team? None other than football veterans Angelo Dabiero and Tom Urbanik. They figure to provide the Donorans with a splendid one-two punch next grid season.

Andy Varganin, Jr., former Monessen High athlete, has made the volleyball team at Fort Knox, Ky. Varaganin is with the 2nd Training Regiment's 5th Battalion . . . For the first time in years, the Westmoreland County Coaches Association will stage a banquet for members and friends. The event will take place on June 7 at the Holiday House near Monroeville . . . A record number of 72 schools are entered in the current WPIAL track program. For the first time, every valley school will be represented by a cinder squad.

Brownsville Gridders May Play Munhall

Brownsville High officials are negotiating with Munhall for the football opener this season. The Brownies are having all sorts of troubles as they attempt to complete their 1957 schedule . . . In contrast, Monessen High has its football card pretty much settled through 1961 . . . The oldest varsity sport at Penn State is baseball, dating way back to 1875 . . . By the way, the current Penn State diamond coach Joe Bedenk is in his 27th year at the helm . . . The newly-formed Monongahela High track team is being coached by Roy Leffard, a member of Al Cree's staff during football season.

Twenty-seven years ago — 1930 to be exact — Bill Marino, now a watchman at the Monessen Page plant, won the city marble championship. This year, his eleven year old son David will take part in the marble show and try to match his dad's feat . . . The Foothills Football Conference, made up of Latrobe, Greensburg, Jeannette, Connellsville.. Wilkinsburg and Hempfield, recently turned down membership applications from New Kensington and North Huntingdon. However it was pointed out that the two schools may be welcome in the future. At the moment, though, the Conference has too many problems to work out before seeking additional members.

Mangan Muffed Chance to Make Majors

Jim Mangan, the stormy catcher who irked both Pirate and Giant officials, was sold the other day to Sacramento in the Pacific Coast League. Mangan started his baseball career with the Uniontown Coal Barons. He has great potential but seems to pop off at the wrong time. He would have been a good bet to move up as the Giants first-string catcher this season had he guarded his speech . . . Ever wonder what former heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles is doing these days? Well, Ez has a small night club in Cincinnati and dabbles in public relations work. He stopped off in Arnold the other day to see his former manager, Tom Tannas.

Big Things Happen At Baseball Openers

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP)—As certain as peanuts and soda pop—things that are bound to happen as the baseball season swings into high gear today:

As tradition demands the umps will yell "play ball" and then stow that parade away for another year.

Casey Stengel will exude confidence and worry privately about Mickey Mantle's double loss.

Some guy who's "gone sock" will get fired because his boss saw him at the ball park instead of work.

I'm a cinch to grab first for my one good rookie.

A player who goes for the home collar will strike out in the spring. The pitchers are ahead of the hitters.

Ted Still Something

A pitcher who is one of the few remaining "rabbit" in the ball than ever.

Ted Williams still is something to see even if he strikes out four times.

A rookie will admit to all and mostly scouts that "they sure patch a pitcher up here."

A rookie pitcher will permit in batting practice that the hitters are harder to fool up here."

Some guy will use the same old joke about his trousers and send his shoes out looking for a foul ball, and then wonder why a complete set of clothes.

Another guy will get decked by a fast one and will look much the worse with a black mark on his noggin.

A veteran will be kept from the memory and praise the days of Grover Alexander, Rube Waddell and Walter Johnson and say all are not of his day.

A rookie will admit A coach second division team will win a couple in a row and the manager will confide to friends "we'll surprise a few people this year."

A basher will go four for four and steal two bases and they'll commence comparing him to Ty Cobb. A month later he, too, will be back in Georgia.

And every guy who starts off the season with a home run will automatically be three games ahead of Babe Ruth's pace when he hit his record 60 in 1927.

Standings show Order, 36-34, General Office, 52-38; Production 52-38, Shipping 41-49, Engineering 38-52 and Payroll 31-59.

Jockey Injured Slightly in Fall

HALLANDALE, Fla. (UP)—Jockey Arthur Shuter, 20, of Brooklyn, N.Y., suffered a slight concussion Monday when his mount Good Rule threw him shortly after the start of the first race at Gulfstream Park. He was treated at the track hospital and released.

State Fishermen Turn Out for Trout Opening

Despite chilly temperatures, Pennsylvania anglers turned out by the thousands yesterday for the opening of the 1957 trout season.

The mercury ranged from 19 to 32 across the state during the early hours of the day. But that did little to cool the enthusiasm of state fishermen.

"Although we haven't any official reports we expect there was a good opening day catch," said Robert C. Glover, the conservation-education director for the State Fish Commission.

"We won't be able to tell for a day or so how big the catch really was," Glover said. "But on the basis of spot checks it appears the cold weather didn't hurt too much and the fair skies helped a lot."

Among the half-million or so anglers who turned out were Governor George Leader and his sons, Michael and Frederick. Unhappily, Gov. Leader reported no catch "except the beginning of a cold."

Snow on Ground

Snow was reported still on the ground in some northern sections of the state.

In many areas schools declared holidays to permit youngsters the opportunity of joining parents on the fisherman's holiday.

This will be the longest trout season in modern state history, spanning 4½ months through Labor Day.

The commission has stocked some 2,400,000 hatchery fish along 4,500 miles of streams. More than 700,000 resident fishing licenses have been issued.

William Voigt, executive director, eyes the prospect of generally bigger trout this season because of less crowded conditions in hatcheries.

Sugar Hart Is Happy Again

NEW YORK (UP) — Life was sweet again today for Garnet (Sugar) Hart.

The 21-year-old Philadelphia knockout artist regained his winning touch Monday night by stopping Willie (Pineapple) Stevenson of Boston in the seventh round of their widely-televised fight at St. Nicholas Arena.

It was Hart's 19th knockout in 23 fights and helped erase the memory of his sad Madison Square Garden debut last month when he was outpointed by Walter Byars, another Boston product.

Hart's heavier firepower started to take its toll in the sixth and just before the end of that session, Stevenson was flattened for a two-count by a wicked left hook. He hit the deck again for an eight-count midway in the seventh and when another flurry of punches sent Willie reeling referee Barney Felix halted the action at 2:53.

Indians Peddle Outfielder Pope

CLEVELAND (UP)—The Cleveland Indians cut down to 28 players today when they sold outfielder Dave Pope and optioned pitchers Bud Daley and Hank Aguirre to San Diego in the Pacific Coast League. The Indians also signed outfielder Roger Maris, infielder Larry Raines and catcher Russ Nixon to major league contracts.

Cubs Have Best Opening Day Mark

CHICAGO (UP) — The Chicago Cubs, with a 35-27 record, have the best mark of any National League team in opening games. The St. Louis Cardinals have the poorest record with 22 wins and 34 losses.

The Charleroians collected only three [illegible] the hurling of Fred Mollard and Conrad Lupori. However they took full advantage of two costly miscues.

Bellmar was able to garner only two safeties from lefty Carl Witmyer. One of them was a double by Jim Bitonti which proved the big blow in the Canes two-run fifth inning.

Both of the Bellmar errors were committeed by lanky Bob Beggs, a pitcher who was hurriedly pressed into service as a first baseman. Beggs subbed for regular Steve Raymond who twisted his ankle against Monessen last week.

Charleroi Scores

Charleroi scored a run in the first inning on an error, walk and fielders choice. In the second, the visitors added two more runs on a walk, sacrifice error and fielders choice.

Bellmar made the game close in the fifth inning. Tom O'Toole started the fun with a clean single after Witmyer had pitched perfect ball for four innings. Bitonti followed with a two bagger. Beggs sacrificed O'Toole across the plate and Bitonti came home on Joe Uhlman's error.

USW to Begin Practice Tomorrow

Monessen USW will begin baseball practice tomorrow at 3:15 p. m. at Ninth Street Park.

Manager Ralph Nicksich has invited all interested candidates to report.

"About the only fellow sure of his job this year is scorekeeper Mike Lipnicky," kidded Nicksich. "The team is wide open and everyone is invited," Nicksich added.

Tonight at Ninth Street, the Monessen Ozarks will work out. Both the Ozarks and USW will take part in the upcoming Mon Valley League season.

Monongahela Nips California in Baseball, 6-4

Monongahela High fought its way back into the Section 17 race yesterday by slimming California 6-4, at the losers diamond.

A three run rally in the seventh inning proved the difference as the Wildcats lagged, 4-3, going back into the big frame.

Five players accounted for all Monongahela hits with Fred Cox pacing the attack with a double and two singles.

Rich Sacane, Ed Kikla, George Fabin and George Peters each had two safeties.

For the Trojans Carmen Quasarella had a double and single while Ewing Bell stroked a triple.

Kikla, the winning pitcher, fanned nine Trojans. Frank Scripp chalked as many Wildcats.

The victory was the second in three starts for the Monongahelans.

Score by Innings:

California	012	001	0	4	6	0

McVickers Win 2nd Half Title

McVickers blanked the Brownmans last night to win the second half title in the Bowling Mill Millwrights Bowling League.

In another match Generals won a pair from the Fillers.

The McVickers will meet the Brownmans, first half champions in a rolloff on April 29.

Last night's leading scorers were Ralph Greco, 204-507, Ray Eckhart 176-497, Walt Labeka 205-483, and Steve Swansick, 193-489.

MHS Trackers at Redstone Today

Monessen High's track team will visit Redstone today for a meet scheduled to start at 2:45 p. m.

The youthful Greyhounds opened their season last week at Brownsville, scoring only 17 2-3 points.

Monessen failed to win a first place, but Coach Cliff Jones' boys hope to do a little better this time.

Hounds Seek Second Win of Season at Ninth Street Park

Coach John Hayduk's Monessen High baseballers will play host to Donora today at Ninth Street Park beginning at 4 p. m.

The Greyhounds, who were unanimous choices to finish last in the pre-season ratings, have proved pleasant surprises so far. At the moment, they own a 1-1 record.

Monessen upset Monongahela, then lost to Bellmar.

Donora has proved a little more consistent, losing as predicted on two occasions.

Both teams are young. The Dragons will probably open with a couple of freshmen in the lineup. They are outfielder Tom Ruscetti and pitcher Chuck Guiffrida.

Two Veterans

The Donorans do have a pair of veterans back from last season as well as three letter-winners. The vets are first baseman Mike Chuckran and catcher Dave Russell, who also pitches or plays anywhere in the infield or outfield. In short, Russell will play at any spot he's needed.

The letter-winners on the Dragon squad are shortstop Angelo Dabieto, centerfielder Bill Sento and infielder Bing Alcott.

Completing the Donora lineup will be Jerry Amatangelo at second; Elroy Ramirez at third, and Frank Romantino in left.

Hayduk has juggled his Monessen starters the last two times out and it's quite possible he'll have another revised lineup this afternoon.

Sepitko on Hill

Myron Sepitko junior hurler, will probably start on the mound. His battery mate will be John Kaminsky.

The MHS infield will probably consist of Tom Churan at first, Jimmy Baker at second, Sam Thorpe at third and Jimmy Barker at third.

In the outfield will be Carl Crawley, Mike Kunsa and Jimmy Sepesky.

Grid Outlook Is Unsettled At Penn State

It'll be September before football again claims the spotlight at Penn State.

With Spring practice at an end, Coach Rip Engle and his aides concentrated on a reevaluation of personnel before choosing the 50 to 60 players who'll be invited to preseason drills beginning September 1.

Only players absolutely certain of invitations are the 16 who won their letters last year, plus a dozen others who picked up some game experience during the surprisingly successful 1956 campaign.

Coach Engle indicated that the tackle and guard positions still remain his No. 1 problem. The center and end positions are pretty well stocked, and last year's second platoon backfield returns intact.

If we can master the manpower to [illegible] together a second unit comparable to last year's reserve platoon," Engle said, "we'll be in pretty good shape. But we're still thin in several spots."

Last year, the Lion gridders parlayed an abundance of team spirit plus a second unit of unexpected strength into a 6-2-1 season. The Lions will again play nine games in 1957.

Standings show Stainless, 27-18; Electrical, 27-18, Mechanical No. 1, 26-19; Cold Roll, 23-22; Mechanical No. 2, 16-29, and Testing, 16-29.

DOCTORING YOUR GOLF

By CARY MIDDLECOFF

Don't Complicate Your Swing

A sound golf swing must be kept simple. The more complicated the swing, the less consistent the game, and the more likely it will be to crack under close-match pressure.

The backswing should be a means of getting the hands in proper position to deliver the hit. The downswing involves bringing the clubhead into the ball square to the intended line of flight. The backswing and the downswing together should be thought of as one continuous unit.

The action of the body on the backswing — the turning of the shoulders and hips, the transfer of weight to the right leg, the inward turn of the left knee and ankle — gets the hands in the proper position at the top. The same goes for the downswing. The weight goes back over to the left leg, the left hip turns out of the way, the shoulders turn, the right leg relaxes — all for the purpose of letting the hands perform without interference.

The above may not give you any specific help on your game. But I'm sure your overall game will be helped if you concentrate on simplicity and unity.

Caddy Asking $25,000 from Eastern Golfer

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (UP) — A golfing jurist may be required to sit judgment on a golfer charged with dropping and hitting a second ball while his first ball was in the fairway. The charge was made in a $25,000 damage suit.

The suit was filed today by Bernard J. Hopeck, a caddy, and his parents, of West Hazleton, Pa., against Julius Weiss, of Hazleton.

Hopeck said in his suit that he was struck on the forehead by a ball driven by Weiss while he was retrieving the first shot. He said Weiss violated the rules by dropping a second ball and playing it when the first shot was in bounds on the fairway.

The caddy said he received no warning of the second stroke, although he was in full view of Weiss. The play was at the Valley Country Club in nearby Conyngham.

Pirates Open Against Giants

Friend, Antonelli Duel in Season Inaugural; Anticipated 35,000 Fans

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Manager Bobby Bragan, sticking to his prediction of a fourth place finish, sent his Pittsburgh Pirates against the New York Giants today in a season opener at Forbes Field that attracted an overflow crowd of 35,000 fans.

Added impetus was injected into the game by a running verbal duel between Bragan and Giants' manager Bill Rigney, centering on which team would finish higher in the standings this year.

Pittsburgh climbed out of the cellar to finish seventh in 1956—one rung below the sixth - place Giants. But Bragan hurled a challenge that New York wouldn't finish higher than his Bucs this time.

Friend vs. Antonelli

Hoping to prove his claim, Brash Bobby named right-handed ace Bob Friend as Pittsburgh's starting pitcher to oppose the Giants' 20-game winner, southpaw Johnny Antonelli.

The same two pitchers faced each other in last season's opener at the Polo Grounds in New York with the Giants taking a 4-3 decision. Friend finished the year with a 17-17 record while Antonelli was 20-13.

Four players were in the Pirates' starting lineup today who were not on the team which opened the 1956 campaign. Ramon Mejias, a .274 hitter for Pacific Coast League Hollywood last year, was in right field in place of the ailing Roberto Clemente, catcher Frank Foiles was behind the plate instead of Danny Kravitz. Bill Mazeroski opened at second and Billy Virdon started in center field.

Foiles, a right-handed batter, was Bragan's selection to face the left-handed pitching of Antonelli in place of Kravitz, who swings from the left side. Virdon, second leading batter in the league last season with a .319 average, was acquired by Pittsburgh last June in a trade with the St. Louis Cardinals.

Governor On Hand

Rounding out the opening day lineup for Pittsburgh were Dale Long at first base, Captain Dick Groat at shortstop, Frank Thomas at third and Lee Walls in left field.

It was only the second time in 62 years that the Pirates launched the season at home. The occurrence left the city slightly baseball crazed. Daylong "welcome home" celebrations were held Monday, including a motorcade, a luncheon and a dinner Monday night that attracted nearly 900 fans.

The dinner, sponsored by the Fraternal Order of Eagles, was highlighted when United Press Sports Writer Rudy Cernkovic, chairman of the Pittsburgh chapter of the Baseball Writers Assn. of America, presented the "outstanding player of the spring" award to Virdon.

In attendance at the dinner were Gov. George M. Leader, Mayor David L. Lawrence and other city and county officials as well as the mayors of cities in the Tri-State.

The governor and his son, Michael, planned to attend today's game, scheduled for 1:30 p.m. The weatherman called for cloudy but warm weather with a high of 62 degrees.

Milwaukee Faces Critical Season; Braves Confident

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UP)—The Milwaukee Braves, baseball's most successful team in history at the turnstiles, but runners-up in the standings two years in a row, opened their most critical season today since moving here from Boston four years ago.

Fans in Braveland expect a National League pennant this season, after the near-miss in 1956 when two losses in the final series with St. Louis gave the pennant to Brooklyn by one game.

The Braves from manager Fred Haney to the batboy are confident they can win the top prize. So confident, they didn't make any trades or bring up any talented rookies from their farm teams to strengthen the two alleged weak spots in their lineup—second base and left field.

Same Lineup

Critics to the contrary, the Braves' starting lineup today at Chicago was the same one used most of last season, including second baseman Danny O'Connell and left fielder Bobby Thomson.

The critics said the Braves would have to find replacements for O'Connell and Thomson if they hoped to cop the pennant. Trades involving the pair were rumored many times during the winter, but nothing materialized.

In spring drills, Haney gave newcomers a chance to dislodge the veterans, but none could make the grade.

Haney has said all along that he feels he can win with his 1956 lineup, despite criticism that it lacked "courage" in the clutch.

Pirates Schedule Tryout Camp For April 27

The Pittsburgh Pirates will conduct their second annual High School Baseball Clinic at Forbes Field on Saturday morning, April 27, prior to the Pirates-Brooklyn Dodgers game, according to an announcement today by General Manager Joe L. Brown.

All Tri-State area high school baseball coaches and their varsity team members have been invited to attend the clinic and the following ball game as guests of the Pirates.

Pirate Manager Bobby Bragan, his coaches Clyde Sukeforth, Danny Murtaugh, Sam Narron and Lenny Levy, and the Pirate players along with Hall-of-Famers George Sisler and Pie Traynor will serve as instructors at the clinic, which will begin at 10 a. m. sharp. Instruction will cover hitting, pitching, catching, infield play and general baseball fundamentals.

For further details, coaches should contact Jack Berger, in care of the Pittsburgh Pirates, Forbes Field, Pittsburgh 13.

Orioles Nip Senators, 7-6, In Opener; Big Card Today

By UNITED PRESS

The major league pennant races start in earnest today after a presidential opener in which baseball put its worst foot forward.

Some 250,000 fans are expected at the eight openers with primary interest focusing on the New York Yankees' attempt to make a fast getaway in quest of a third straight American League pennant and the Brooklyn Dodgers' embarking on what is figured to be another season - long National League battle with the Milwaukee Braves and Cincinnati Redlegs.

A Ragged Start

The season got off Monday to a somewhat ragged start when the Baltimore Orioles scored an 11-inning, 7-6 victory over the Washington Senators in a three - hour and 17-minute struggle marked by 26 hits and five errors. President Eisenhower tossed out two ceremonial "first balls" and looked like the best pitcher in the ball park until Billy Loes came along to pitch two scoreless innings and pick up the triumph.

Something more like big league competition is anticipated today and tonight from a schedule that has Washington at New York, Chicago at Cleveland, Boston at Baltimore and Detroit at Kansas City in the A.L., and Brooklyn at Philadelphia (night), New York at Pittsburgh, Milwaukee at Chicago and St. Louis at Cincinnati in the N.L.

Casey Stengel, seeking his eighth pennant in nine years, sends 19 - game winner Whitey Ford against the Senators, who ton in 1919.

Strikeout whiz Herb Score was Cleveland's choice to open for the Indians against Jack Harshman of the White Sox; Frank Sullivan or Tom Brewer is going for the Red Sox against the Orioles, and 21-game winner Frank Lary of the Tigers is facing Tom Morgan of the Athletics.

In the National League night opener, the Dodgers are sending 27-game winner Don Newcombe against Robin Roberts of the Phillies. The Dodgers will be without the services of PeeWee Reese in an opener for the first time in his career, excepting the war years, because of a strained back muscle. Don Zimmer, the Brooks' hard luck kid, is replacing him.

Warren Spahn, a 20-game winner last season, is handling the Braves' opening day mound chore against the Cubs' Bob Rush; Johnny Antonelli of the New York Giants is opposing Bob Friend of the Pirates and Vinegar Bend Mizell is hurling for the St. Louis Cardinals against surprise starter Johnny Klippstein of the Redlegs.

The races start with the Yankees a lop-sided 2-5 pick in the A.L. and the Braves a slight choice in the N.L.

A crowd of 23,872 saw the Orioles finally beat out the Senators Monday when Dick Williams doubled, moved to third on a sacrifice and scored on a sacrifice fly by rookie outfielder Carl Powis.

White lines to designate traffic lanes were introduced in Boston against the Senators, who ton in 1919.

Ban on Live Bait at County Trout Lake

Recently the State Fish Commission announced a ban on the use of any fish, dead or alive, as bait in six of the 52 Pennsylvania lakes approved for trout stocking.

Included in this ban is Keystone Reservoir in this county.

According to William Voigt, Jr., executive director of the Commission, Keystone Reservoir, along with Lyman Run Dam in Potter County, has been drawn down for improvement and will be stocked later in the season.

Four other lakes have been chemically treated in recent months to eliminate their former undesirable fish populations.

List Lakes

These lakes are: Upper Woods Pond in Wayne County; Champman's Dam in Warren County; Highland Lake in Lycoming County; and Cowan's Gap Dam in Fulton County. The waters have been stocked with adult trout and were opened to fishing yesterday.

These are the first of a score or more lakes on the agenda of Commission biologists for similar treatment. As their work progresses, the list will lengthen.

"In each instance," said Voigt, "the bait fish ban is a precaution against the reintroduction of undesirable species of fishes that would not only compete with the trout for the available food supply, but in short order would put the lakes right back in the poor fishing category from which they were removed."

According to Voigt, the water areas affected will be adequately posted with signs.

Duck Daddy—

"I put up three of the improved metal wood duck nesting homes south of the dam breast at Brady's Lake," reports a Monroe County Game Protector, John Spencer.

"Every time I pass the location in the morning I see a pair, or pairs, of wood ducks on the water near the man-made homes. If the substitutes for hollow trees are not used by woodies this year I will be disappointed," says Spencer.

About 28 per cent of the delivered price of a new auto consists of taxes.

Beaver Catch—

During Pennsylvania's 1957 beaver season, February 14 to March 11, 2,913 pelts of the flat tails, trapped in the state, were sealed by Game Protectors.

The large fur animals, called "engineers of the wild," were taken in 44 of the 67 counties in the Commonwealth. Crawford led the list again, with 350. Wayne county was second with 267, and Susquehanna followed with 178. Other counties showing a catch of more than 100 were: Bradford, 166; Elk, 135; Erie, 130; Luzerne, 105; McKean, 135; Potter, 161; Sullivan, 158; Tioga, 170; Warren, 112; and Wyoming, 108.

Though the low fur prices reduced the interest in trapping for beavers the record shows little variance in the annual catch in the last five years. The average has been about 3,100 in those seasons. The tabulation shows the take as follows in the trapping periods beginning four years ago: 1953 — 2,934 beavers; 1954 — 3,459; 1955 — 3,176; 1956 — 2,973; and 1957 — 2,913.

Time to Plant—

Game birds and animals are largely dependent on natural foods and vegetal cover for sustenance and protection. But because of conditions these days it is often necessary for man to supplement nature's sometimes inadequate provisions for food and cover.

Sportsmen, farmers and youth organizations often combine forces with the Game Commission and other conservation agencies to make more of these necessities available to wildlife, thereby improving the supply of game.

Now is the time for planting food-producing trees, shrubs and vines, and in some cases field crops. Also, it is not too early for sportsmen's organizations to plan with farmer friends to provide food plots and escape cover for wildlife.

We're blooming with freshly arrived Arrow Ties and Handkerchiefs . . . come and take your pick for Easter. Whatever your taste, reserved or less conservative, you'll find fabrics, colors, and designs galore in smooth-draping, wrinkle-resistant ties.

Rising Costs Are Being Blamed For Death of Music Magazine

By JOHN F. CLANCY

PHILADELPHIA (UP)— The world's most widely circulated musical magazine, can be attributed to an increasingly serious problem of the publishing world—rising production costs—according to its editor.

Guy McCoy, editor of the publication once known as the "bible of the musical home", admitted today there were other contributing factors to the ceasing of publication next month after 74 years.

"But the real reason was the constant rise in basic production costs," he said. "Our overhead was rising steadily and we could see no end to it.

"The death of Etude can be attributed to the same disease that has killed many other magazines in recent years."

McCoy conceded that the circulation of Etude dropped from 250,000 at its peak to some 50,000 in recent editions. But he said the circulation means nothing.

"Rising production costs killed Colliers Magazine even though it had a circulation of a few million," he said. "Other magazines which sold only 40,000 to 50,000 copies were able to operate because they were able to keep their overhead low."

Etude's Big Problem

McCoy said Etude had an even bigger problem than other magazines struggling to keep from going under since it included in each issue a music section.

"We were giving away several dollars worth of music in each issue," he said. "We used to have 24 pages of sheet music in our magazine but it was too costly. We cut it down to 16 or 18 pages in the late '40s but that didn't help overcome the rising production costs. We had to include music for the piano, the chord organ, the accordion and other instruments so we couldn't cut the section any lower."

Etude could not increase its advertising to offset the higher overhead because its advertisements were in a specialized field, restricting the number of potential advertisers, McCoy said.

"We just couldn't do anything about it," he said. "There was nothing else to do but cease publication."

The editor said the need of the Etude type of magazine isn't as great anymore. He said it was founded for the purpose of providing music teachers with instruction on improving their methods and the latest news and techniques in their field.

"Today, teachers do not need such a magazine as much," he said. "Universities and music schools have excellent courses to provide teachers with the information we gave them. Then there are the numerous workshops conducted throughout the country every year, in addition to refresher courses at universities and music schools.

"The lesser need was the reason for our circulation drop. But we could have kept going with the lower circulation if the production costs had reached a peak somewhere along the line."

McCoy termed "ridiculous" a report that decreased interest in piano playing at home was a major factor in the publication's decline. He said there is more music in the home now than ever and the sales of pianos and other instruments are reaching an all-time high.

He said the end of publication with the May-June issue shocked the musical world. He said his desk was piled high with letters from subscribers sharing the sorrow of the staff over the demise.

Optical Firm's Appeal Denied On Advertising

HARRISBURG (UP)—A Pittsburgh optical firm's appeal of a decision upholding the constitutionality of a 1956 state law which bars advertising or prices for eyeglasses, frames and similar items was denied today by Dauphin County Court Judge William H. Neely.

Judge Neely reaffirmed his decision of Feb. 1 in which he ordered the Price Optical Company to stop advertising its prices under the new law. He said the statute was designed "to protect the safety of our citizens through regulation of persons engaged in work or services pertaining to the eyes."

George A. Ullom, head of the optical firm, brought the original action as a test case of the new law. He contended it pertained only to optometrists and not opticians.

Aged Mother Wins

DETROIT (UP) — A 104-year-old charity patient, who worked as a charwoman to raise a family of 10 children, was awarded $300,000 Monday from the estate of a millionairess daughter who tried to cut her off without a cent.

The award to Mrs Wilhelmina Van Etten, a city-supported patient at a rest home here, climaxed a two-year legal battle in courts in Michigan and New York Mrs. Van Ettin's attorneys, in a suit filed two years ago, contended that her six - times wed daughter, Mrs. Agnes Momand ignored her mother because of fraud and undue influence.

The daughter, who died May 25, 1955 at the age of 65, wrote six wills, but failed to leave her mother any of the 3 million dollar fortune she had amassed by her marriages In one of her wills, however, Mrs Momand remembered her mother by a gift to the University of Nevada

In contesting the will, attorneys for Mrs. Van Etten cited usage of alcohol and drugs as reasons why her daughter was unfit to make a will.

The only member of the family mentioned in the will was Mrs Betty Roberts, of Los Angeles, a sister of Mrs. Momand Other beneficiaries included her doctors, nurses, servants and her last husband, Dodd S Momand of London.

Mrs Van Etten, a hospital patient for the past two years, was said to be in "satisfactory condition"

Asked what she would do with the money, she said:

"Just pay some bills."

Tots Tested in Refrigerators

WASHINGTON (UP) — Government researchers have lured 201 tiny tots one by one into a refrigerator-size "playhouse" to test their reactions when trapped

The result was a government proposal to prevent "ice box" deaths.

Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks in a report to Congress Monday night proposed standards for an easily operated release mechanism for escaping from inside a closed refrigerator.

He said the standards were set after a series of tests by the Bureau of Standards and Children's Bureau with 201 children ranging in age from 2 to 5.

The report said the children one by one were lured into a "playhouse" by showing inside a Mickey Mouse - Donald Duck cartoon The plywood "playhouse" inside was the size of the average family refrigerator.

Once the child was inside the cartoon stopped, the "playhouse" door was shut and the child was left in darkness.

Child development experts observed the trapped children's behavior through a "snooperscope." Infra - red motion pictures were made. Sound recordings were taken of the children's outcries.

The report said three-fourths of the children found a safety latch on the "playhouse" door and released themselves in less than three minutes. One tenth of these got out in less than 10 seconds.

The tests revealed that some children made a purposeful effort to escape by searching for the latch while others engaged in "violent action both directed toward escape and undirected."

Because some youngsters did nothing at all, test observers concluded no safety release will be 100 per cent effective.

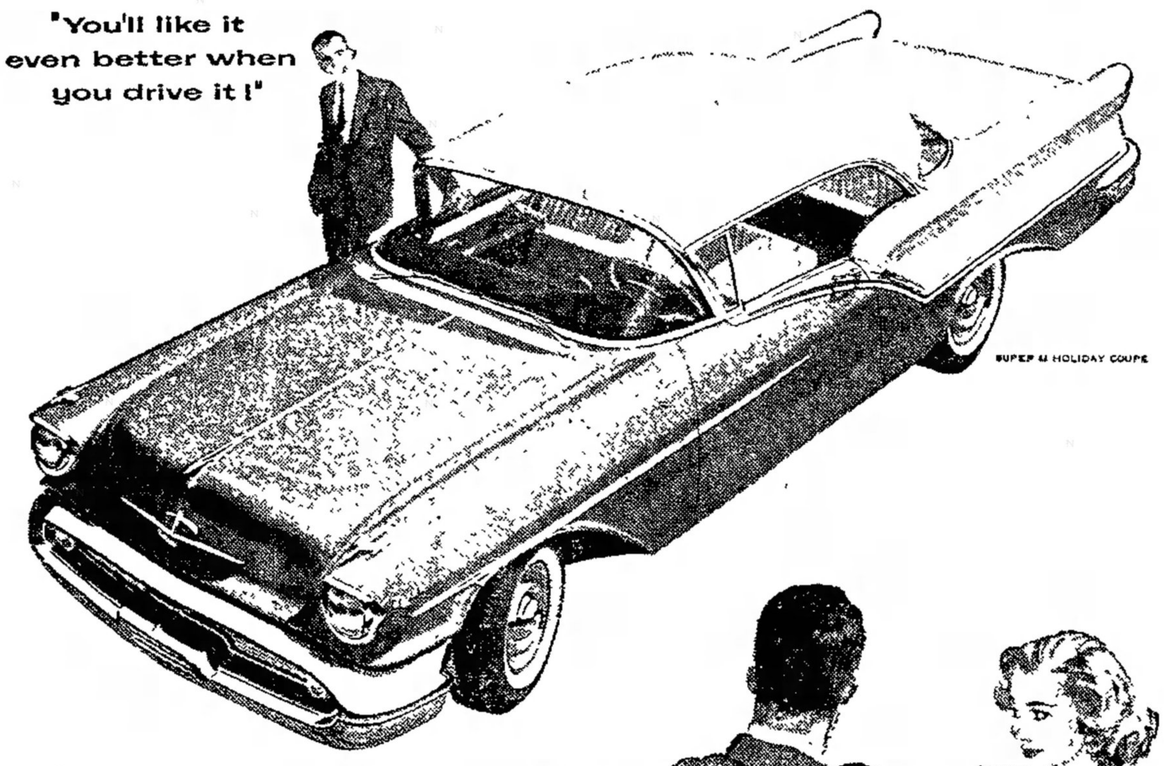
OLDSMOBILE

STYLED TO SMART EASTERN TASTES

"You'll like it even better when you drive it!"



SUPER 88 HOLIDAY COUPE

Neighbor: Say, your new Olds sure looks like a lot of car!

Olds Owner: That's nothing, wait'll you take a ride.

(A few minutes later:)

Neighbor: Man-oh-man, where'd all that power come from? I've never felt anything like that before!

Olds Owner: That's Oldsmobile's new J-2 Rocket Engine*!

Neighbor: What's that? Tell me how it works.

Olds Owner: When you're driving under ordinary conditions, it uses only one carburetor. That means economy with a capital E. But when you need a sudden burst of power, for safety's sake, you just press the accelerator three-quarters of the way down—and two additional carburetors cut in!

Neighbor: In other words, with J-2, you can have economy when you want it and power when you need it. That's for me!

Olds Owner: Better see your Olds dealer. He's expecting you!

*Optional at extra cost on all models

I live today with memories
Of days when you were here

Throughout each day and year.
At night when all is silent
And sleep foresakes my eyes,
My thoughts are in that lonely grave
Where our dear loved one lies.
Sadly missed by daughter, Doris

In loving memory of our dearest father and grandfatner, Amato Tinen, who passed away nine years ago today, April 16, 1948.
Nine sad and lonely years have passed
Since our great sorrow fell
The shock that we received that day
Will always with us dwell
We did not know the pain you had
Or hear your final sigh.
We only know you passed away
Without a last goodbye.
A happy home we once enjoyed
How sweet the memory still
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill
A bitter grief the shock severe
To part with you we loved so dear
Sadly missed by his Children and Grandchildren, Nello A Tinen, Mr and Mrs James Tinen and Children Mr and Mrs Frank Mendicino and Daughter Mr and Mrs. Mike Yelletz and Children

'Phantom Profits' Criticized by Steel Executive

PITTSBURGH (UP)—A United States Steel Corp. executive says "phantom profits" pose a serious problem for industry.

Harvey B. Jordan, executive vice president in charge of operations, said in an address Monday night that these profits must be used to replace worn-out or obsolete production equipment.

Because of inflation and inadequate depreciation allowances, he said, money that should be recovered by business to meet replacement costs must be reported as taxable earnings.

"As an operator," he said, "I would hate to be told next year or the year after that there is no money for us to replace worn-out equipment. This is something that could happen if the problem is not recognized in time."

Jordan spoke at a meeting of the Pittsburgh branch of the Controllers Institute of America.

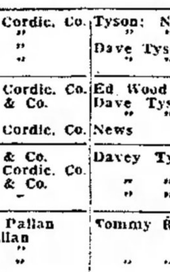
'LaPrensa' Story on TV Channel 6 Tonight

By WILLIAM EWALD

NEW YORK (UP) — Early in 1951, the presses of one of the world's great newspapers stopped in Buenos Aires, Argentine. After 24,475 editions, the voice of a free "La Prensa" was silenced.

The struggle that led to that silencing . . . and the eventual victory of Dr. Alberto Gainza Paz, publisher of "La Prensa," to print a free newspaper again . . . will be told tonight on NBC-TV's "Armstrong Circle Theatre."



William Ewald

It will be called "Slow Assassination: Peron Versus La Prensa." It will tell the story of one newspaper and its defiance of a dictator. But, its producers hope, it also will prove a vivid illustration of the might of free newspapers everywhere and the safeguards a free press provides against tyranny.

Paz To Appear

Kent Smith, a veteran actor, will star as Dr. Gainza Paz in a script written by Irve Tunick and Cullen Moore. Bruce Gordon will play Jose Santos Gollan, editor of the paper, and Philip Bourneuf will play Dr. Manuel Ordonez, attorney on the side of "La Prensa." John Cameron Swaze will narrate.

Dr. Gainza Paz, who returned to Argentina in late 1955 after Peron was deposed, will appear briefly at the end of the program.

The show has been a long time in the making. It was almost a year ago that Robert Costello, producer of tonight's 60-minute "actual," decided to showcase the story of South America's largest and most independent newspaper.

Costello has turned out such other "actuals" for Armstrong as the sinking of the Andrea Doria, the Poznan trials and the revolt of the freedom fighters in Hungary.

Story Is Authentic

Dr. Gainza Paz worked with the scriptwriters and Costello to give the finished product authenticity. To give tonight's show an one-the-spot flavor, some newsreel shots taken in Argentina will be worked in.

The story will trace Juan Peron's efforts to throttle "La Prensa," beginning back in 1945. At first the program will show how the Peron government tried subtle methods — expropriating the paper's newsprint and burdening it under with paperwork.

Or, as Swayze will describe it: "La Prensa officials were forced to spend hour after hour on mountains of forms . . . each in triplicate, each to be notarized before witnesses, countersigned by government officials usually on vacation."

That method failed, so the government forced "La Prensa" to cut down to 12 pages a day, hoping perhaps that the limited space for advertisements would pose a financial problem for the paper. That failed, too, and so the government turned to violence—with rioters attacking the paper and its employees.

The presses were, of course, stilled. But, as tonight's program will show, Peron's victory was only temporary.

Cleveland Press Plans Expansion

CLEVELAND (UP)—The Cleveland Press, a Scripps-Howard newspaper, today announced plans for a new 10 million dollar, four-story building which will double the present facilities of the paper.

Groundbreaking ceremonies will be Friday morning on a three-acre site. Completion is scheduled for October, 1958.

Charles E. Scripps, board chairman of the Scripps-Howard newspapers, will turn the first shovel of earth. He is the grandson of E. W. Scripps who founded the Press in 1878, the first of the 19 newspapers.

Your Health—

What's Average Weight And Height for Child

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

Parents always seem to be wondering how their child compares with the average youngster in height and weight.

I've pointed out in the past that each child is an individual case and should not be compared with the kid next door. But to satisfy those of you who insist on some sort of average figure, here are a few I think most physicians will agree upon.

At birth, the average baby is about 20 inches in height. He gains some 10 inches during the first year so that at the age of one he is 30 inches tall.

You can determine the average height between the ages of 2 to 14 by using a simple formula — height equals 2½ times the age, plus 30. Thus, for a 10-year-old youngster, take 2½ times 10 and add 30. This gives you an average height of 55 inches, or 4 feet 7 inches.

The average weight of a baby at birth is about 7.4 pounds.

Between 3 months and one year, the weight in pounds equals the age in months plus 11. For a four-month-old baby, it would be 4 plus 11, or 15 pounds.

At 30 months, the average child weighs 30 pounds. And at 3½ he weighs 35 pounds.

the age of 4 to 8 you can verage weights by multi- the age of 6 and adding 12.

Incidentally, at the age of about 5½, both the height and weight are approximately the same—44.4.

From 8 to 12, the weight equals 7 times the age, plus 5.

Again let me remind you that all children can't be expected to be the same height and weight at the same age. But this should give you an indication of the average.

Question and Answer

W. L.: What would cause a sensation of numbness in the hands?

Answer: Numbness in the hands may be due to a number of different conditions: poor circulation, disturbance in the blood vessels in the hands — as in Raynaud's disease — disturbance in the nerves supplying the affected parts.

Peron Claims He is Directing His Own Fight While in Exile

CARACAS, Venezuela (UP) — Juan Peron, the Argentine dictator who fled his homeland in October, 1955, lives these days in an apartment on the 10th floor of a modernistic building in the Caracas residential district.

Decorating the front door of his flat are the silver initials "VP" standing for the Spanish words "Vuelve Peron" — "Peron Returns."

They embody the essence of Peron's life in exile.

"Naturally I am directing from here all opposition and 'subversive' activities in Argentina," Peron told a newsman recently. "If I had decided to retire and relax I would have gone to Europe where friends have invited me. But I don't want to retire. I want to fight dictatorship. I want to remain as near as possible."

He laughed jokingly and added.

"Of course, due to the distance I cannot be consulted on every minor detail."

A Rare Interview

His talk with the newsman was a rarity. He has consistently avoided the press out of respect for Venezuelan hospitality and asylum. He finally admitted Colombian journalist Plinio Apuleyo Mendoza on condition it be regarded as a friendly personal conversation.

Peron lives in the small apartment with blonde actress Leonor Martinez with whom he strolls in a nearby park and occasionally makes trips to the countryside.

Mendoza submitted his story to Peron before publication. The only objections Peron made were first to the mention of Leonor and second to the newsman saying he was wearing a "pale blue navy shirt."

Peron said "let's say pale blue only—let's cross out the navy" and underlined with a smile his sarcastic reference to the Argentine navy from which came the biggest blows to his government.

Over 60, Peron looks in magnificent health and is usually jovial and smiling. Most of his time is spent in the apartment writing letters and "planning opposition" to the government of Gen Pedro E. Aramburu, Argentina's provisional president.

It is not rare to see him in late evening strolling around and looking in shop windows. He takes drives in a small German Opel with Leonor and two small black dogs in the back seat and his personal chauffeur and private secretary in front.

This casualness is in contrast to the close scrutiny at his apartment. Three men of the Venezuelan Seguridad Nacional are posted at the janitor's office and they intercept all callers, phoning upstairs to see if the visitor is welcome.

Juan Peron

A group of some 15 Argentines here are aiding Peron. They are frequently seen in the fashionable restaurants and cabarets but Peron almost never accompanies them.

Peron says he is comfortably established here. His economic resources are not known but he is reported to have bought several race horse stables and to have purchased a large hacienda.

He is optimistic about his future. In his letters to Argentina he instructs his followers: "Keep on doing everything possible, taking advantage of every minor detail."

DuPont Sales to Show Record First Quarter

WILMINGTON, Del. (UP) — E. I. DuPont de Nemours & Co. sales soared to a record $502-million for the first quarter of 1957 with dividends amounting to $2.12 per share, it was announced today.

The record sales figure tops by one per cent the previous record of $495-million which was set in the last quarter of 1956.

Of the dividend for the first quarter this year, $1.48 per share was from the company's operating activities and 64-cents per share from General Motors Corp. dividend. Earnings for the first quarter last year amounted to $2.03 per share, of which $1.39 was from operating activities and 64-cents from General Motors.

Sales for the first quarter of 1956 totaled $460-million, or nine per cent less than sales for the first three months of this year.

The board of directors re-elected Walter S. Carpenter Jr. as chairman of the board and Crawford H. Greenewalt as president of the company. All other principal officers also were re-elected.

Two Morgantown Papers Up Prices

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UP) — Morgantown's two daily newspapers raised their prices from five to seven cents a copy today.

The West Virginia Newspaper Publishing Co., publisher of the morning Dominion-News and the afternoon Post, said the increase was necessary because of the price of newsprint.

Portland DA Faces Sentence April 26

PORTLAND, Ore. (UP) — District Attorney William M. Langley will be sentenced on April 26, for negligence in failing to prosecute gambling at a charity bazaar.

A circuit court jury of six men and six women returned a guilty verdict against Langley Saturday after deliberating one hour and 40 minutes. The jury vote was 11-1 on the misdemeanor charge.

The 41-year-old district attorney was accused specifically of failing to prosecute William B. Nettleton, a former Portland gambler, for running a gambling operation at a bazaar in February, 1955.

Catholics Urged to Help the World

VATICAN CITY (UP) — Pope Pius XII urged Roman Catholics today "to bring a Christian spirit into international relations which are today becoming ever closer but not more human."

He suggested that Catholics could play a major role in giving technical assistance and advice to underdeveloped nations.

The Pope's appeal was contained in a letter sent on his behalf by Assistant Secretary of State Msgr. Angelo Dellacqua to Raoul Delerwade, president of the current conference of Catholic international organizations in Bruges, Belgium.

Information Agency Faces More Cuts

WASHINGTON (UP) — The House today called an early session to take up President Eisenhower's already deep-cut program for the U.S. Information Agency.

The program faced a rough time.

The House Appropriations Committee last week slashed the USIA's proposed 144 million dollar budget to $106,100,000 — a 26 per cent cut.

But Republicans feared that if they fought for restoration of the cuts on the House floor they would be opening the way for even deeper ones.

Democrats already were calling for more cuts. Senate Democratic Whip Mike Mansfield called for USIA's scalp as an independent agency.

Mansfield said USIA should be made part of the State Department. He also said its budget should be reduced to 55 million dollars.

The USIA budget is part of an appropriation bill including the State and Justice departments and the federal judiciary. The overall bill was for $563,799,793—15 per cent below Eisenhower's request.

Passage was expected Wednesday.

Conservation: The House passed a bill that would finally make the agricultural conservation program permanent. Congress has continually extended the 250-million-dollar program on a temporary basis for the last 21 years. The bill was sent to the Senate.

Refrigerators: The Commerce Department recommended standards for safety devices that enable refrigerator doors to be opened from the inside. The standards are aimed at ending "ice box" deaths of children.

This Senator Has Sense of Humor!

WASHINGTON (UP) — The House budget cutters are in full cry.

Sen. Norris Cotton (R-N.H.), a former member of the House Appropriations Committee, reported thus to his constituents:

"As one member put it, 'The boys are in such a mood that if someone introduced the Ten Commandments they would cut them down to eight.'"

A colleague commented: "If they did, the Democrats would call on President Eisenhower to name the two to be eliminated."

30 people are helping him get well

Like any hospital patient, this little fellow never sees all the people who are working to get him well. He may see 5 or 6 of them. But behind the scenes as many as 30 others have a part in his hospital care.

In addition to the nurses and technicians—there are the people who prepare his food, keep him warm, wash bed linens, buy supplies, keep the power plant going, handle his hospital records, and take care of many other jobs that directly or indirectly are part of the care he receives.

When you consider the combined wages of all these people—and what their services mean to you as a patient—you realize that modern hospital care is one of the biggest bargains you can get—anywhere.

And with each passing year, hospitals improve their services. New methods, drugs, equipment, and specially-trained personnel are being introduced constantly. The cost of hospital care increases, but its increased value to you cannot be measured just in terms of dollars and cents.

Hospitals and Blue Cross together give you the benefit of modern hospital care. Hospitals provide the service—Blue Cross provides the way for millions of people to prepay the cost of that service.

Like most of us, these people have made Blue Cross an essential part of the family budget—realizing that health care is just as important as food, clothing, and shelter in today's modern manner of living.
